BOARD OF GOVERNORS CHAIR MESSAGE

On behalf of the Board of Governors, it is my honour to extend greetings as we mark the 45th anniversary of Gabriel Dumont Institute. This milestone is a celebration of the vision, dedication, and resilience of the many people who have built and supported the Institute over the decades. For 45 years, GDI has stood as a place where Métis learners go to pursue education, training, and cultural growth.

This year also marked the third year of our strategic plan, Proud Past, Bright Future (2022-2027), and it continues to guide our path forward. The Board has seen continued progress toward the priorities we set together, and we remain committed to ensuring the Institute is well-positioned to serve future generations of Métis learners. Our many partnerships remain strong and provide the foundation on which our programs and services can continue to grow and meet the needs of the Métis community.

We want to recognize and welcome GDI's new CEO, Brett Vandale, who has served the Institute in various roles over the past 25 years. With decades of experience and a deep knowledge of our programs and community, his leadership ensures continuity and stability for the Institute. The Board looks forward to the future as we advance GDI's mission and build upon the legacy of excellence that has guided the Institute for 45 years.

We also take time to remember and honour our fellow board member Dennis Langan, who passed in December 2024. Dennis was a long-time and actively serving GDI board member representing Eastern Region IIA. His dedication to the Institute and his leadership within the Métis community will not be forgotten.

The Board extends gratitude to the staff, instructors, leadership, and most importantly, to our students. Helping Métis students and clients succeed is the reason this Institute exists. As we reflect on 45 years of impact, we are confident that GDI will continue to grow, innovate, and provide meaningful opportunities for generations of learners to come.

Wendy Gervais
Chair, Board of Governors
Gabriel Dumont Institute

MESSAGE FROM THE CEO

This year has been one of both steadiness and new beginnings for the Gabriel Dumont Institute. Having previously served as interim CEO, I was honoured to return as CEO in November. Throughout my time at GDI, I have witnessed the enduring commitment of our staff, instructors, and partners who help ensure the success of our Métis learners. That commitment has not wavered and is the foundation of our 45-year legacy.

We are very proud of the many learners who have completed their programs with us and are now contributing their knowledge and skills to their families, communities, and careers. This year, we had a total enrolment of 876 students and celebrated 460 graduates across all GDI programs. GDI Training & Employment also had a strong year, with 3,305 clients receiving support across all twelve regions of the province. I continue to be inspired every day by our students and what they are able to achieve.

Last year, we announced the launch of the Indigenous Education Doctorate program, and in July 2024, we welcomed our first cohort. This was a historic milestone, and I was honoured to join them on their opening day to hear from knowledge keepers, faculty, and partners from the University of Regina. These doctoral students will help pave the way for future Indigenous leaders in education. This program also highlights the Institute's ability to innovate and expand in response to community needs, while supporting Métis leadership within the community.

We also celebrated the Institute's 45th anniversary this year. When GDI was founded in 1980, there were very few Métis teachers in Saskatchewan and limited opportunities for post-secondary education within our community. Today, more than 1,500 GDI-trained teachers are making an impact across Saskatchewan and beyond. Over the years, our programs and services expanded to include Adult Basic Education, skills training, employment services, and university programs, offering Métis learners more pathways than ever before. This growth reflects the dedication of countless students, staff, partners, and community members who have worked together to create opportunities for success.

As we look ahead, we will strive to innovate and inspire, embrace new ideas, and help strengthen our communities while honouring Métis culture.

LEADERSHIP TEAM

This year, there were three leadership position transitions. Brett Vandale was appointed as CEO in November 2024, following the departure of Lisa Bird-Wilson, who went on to pursue new opportunities in the arts sector. Michelle McNally departed as Director of Dumont Technical Institute in April 2024, and Derrick Morin joined as the new DTI Director after an extensive external search. Marlee Proulx was hired as the Director of University Programs in January 2025 to fill Brett Vandale's former position. Together, the leadership team brings a complement of new ideas and proven experience to move our mission forward.

STRATEGIC PLAN & PRIORITIES

The Gabriel Dumont Institute released the 2022-2027 Strategic Plan—Proud Past, Bright Future in the spring of 2022. This five-year plan is the roadmap that guides our action strategy to help achieve the educational and cultural goals of Saskatchewan's Métis communities.

The Proud Past, Bright Future Strategic Plan encompasses our strengths to be innovative and adaptable while staying firmly grounded in our founders' vision as a Métis-owned post-secondary and cultural Institute that puts the Métis people of Saskatchewan first. GDI's mission and vision remain important cornerstones that provide consistency and continuity in all the Institute's operations.

FACILITIES & OPERATIONS

The Facilities Management and Operations Department is vital to the construction, maintenance, and renovation of the Institute's physical spaces. The Facilities Department continues to invest in maintenance and upgrades to GDI properties in Regina, Saskatoon, Prince Albert, and La Loche to provide students with a safe, positive, and engaging learning environment that affirms Métis culture and identity.

Safety is our number one priority, and recent efforts have focused on enhancing campus security through strategic upgrades to our Alertus Safety System. The system is being modernized to offer advanced features and improved functionality, allowing for faster, more efficient responses in emergency situations. These enhancements reflect our ongoing commitment to provide a safe environment for all students and staff across GDI campuses.

In addition to safety, the Facilities Department is committed to sustainability and energy efficiency. Ongoing efforts to upgrade our buildings with green, energy-saving products such as high-efficiency windows, LED lighting, and improved insulation, not only reduce our environmental footprint, but also help lower long-term operational costs. These initiatives support GDI's goal of maintaining modern, cost-effective, and environmentally responsible facilities.

GABRIEL DUMONT INSTITUTE CULTURE and HERITAGE

The Gabriel Dumont Institute Métis Culture and Heritage Department, which includes GDI Press, is the world's only Métis-specific book publisher, curriculum development unit, museum, and cultural resource producer. With this multifaceted mandate, the Department has produced 325 innovative and culturally affirming Métis-specific resources, which have strengthened and preserved the Métis Nation's cultural legacy. The Department's cultural program is community-based and is made possible through the invaluable contributions of Métis Elders, cultural knowledge keepers, authors, illustrators, musicians, and Michif speakers and translators. In 2024-25, the Department received funding from BHP, Creative Saskatchewan, and SaskCulture for our Métis cultural programming.

Once again, the Department received critical success for our publishing program at the Saskatchewan Book Awards. In March 2025, Cort Dogniez's Growing Up Métis: Stories of Resiliency was shortlisted for an Indigenous Peoples Publishing Award and an Indigenous Peoples Writing Award, while Leah Marie Dorion's My Little Métis Sleepy Horse was shortlisted in the Indigenous Peoples Publishing Award. For the 2024 Saskatchewan Book Awards, Gregory Scofield's kôhkominawak ocihcîwâwa: Our Grandmother's Hands: Repatriating Métis Material Art won the Indigenous Peoples' Publishing Award and the Publishing in Education Award.

We produced several new resources; held exhibitions, cultural workshops, book launches, and other cultural events for the Métis and larger communities; served as cultural advisors or executive members for a variety of government and cultural agencies; and had our best year ever in terms of sales for our resources.

SUNTEP

The Saskatchewan Urban Native Teacher Education Program is a four-year Bachelor of Education degree program offered by the Gabriel Dumont Institute in partnership with the University of Saskatchewan, the University of Regina, and the Ministry of Advanced Education. Three locations in Regina, Saskatoon, and Prince Albert serve students from across the province. SUNTEP has a strong emphasis on Métis history, the Michif languages, social justice, and anti-racist/anti-oppressive education. The program combines exceptional academic education with extensive classroom experience and a thorough knowledge of current educational issues.

SUNTEP's primary goals are to ensure that the Métis are equitably represented in the teaching profession and to ensure that graduates are educated to be responsive to the individual needs of all students. Throughout the year, SUNTEP centres host professional and cultural workshops or activities that enrich the student experience by fostering connections to Métis ways of knowing and Métis identity.

In the 2024-25 reporting year, all three SUNTEP centres had a total enrolment of 231. Also, 49 students graduated from SUNTEP with Bachelor of Education degrees. This includes 20 SUNTEP Prince Albert graduates, 20 SUNTEP Saskatoon graduates, and nine SUNTEP Regina graduates. To date, 1,577 Indigenous students have graduated with Bachelor of Education degrees from SUNTEP.

SUNTEP students receive a rigorous academic structure combined with a rich Métis cultural environment, creating a sense of belonging and a supportive community. One of the program's unique features is the focus on culturally responsive pedagogy and land-based education in each classroom. Faculty and staff provide students with creative learning opportunities, including culture camps, Michif-language camps, historic learning trips, and various workshops to immerse the students in Métis culture.

This year, SUNTEP Saskatoon third-year students learned how to make cattail dolls as part of their land-based learning course with new faculty member, Kelley Fineday.

Every year, the entire SUNTEP Regina staff and student body make a trip to Lebret in the heart of the Qu'Appelle Valley. It is an opportunity to build community, learn from Old Ones, and make history and culture more tangible and relevant to our students.

SUNTEP Prince Albert students deepened their cultural knowledge and connections through the annual Fall Cultural Camp. The event provided meaningful experiences rooted in Métis and Indigenous traditions, language, and land-based education. Students participated in hands-on activities, engaged with Elders and Knowledge Keepers, and reflected on their own identities and responsibilities as future educators.

Cagney Fremont and her dog Bergie

SUNTEP graduate, Cagney Fremont entered university as a mature student and discovered a deep passion for education and learning. Throughout her studies, she developed a stronger connection to her Métis heritage and embraced the unique opportunities offered by SUNTEP. Her journey to graduation was far from typical. She began her program during the height of the COVID-19 pandemic and experienced a serious injury in her first year that required hospitalization. Despite these challenges, she completed her coursework and graduated with distinction. Now, as a SUNTEP graduate, she is excited to bring Indigenous knowledge into her teaching practice, both in Saskatchewan and internationally. She is passionate about creating meaningful learning experiences and hopes to make a lasting impact on the lives of others.

I love them all so much and hearing their stories and about when they used to live on the Road Allowance. GDI LIBRARY

The Gabriel Dumont Institute Library supports the information and research needs of the Institute and the local community with branches in Saskatoon, Prince Albert, and Regina. Its unique collection focuses on Métis/Michif, First Nations, and Inuit communities, cultures, and histories, and includes more than 32,700 physical items and over 421,000 electronic resources. Just under 400 new physical items were added to the Library's collections in the 2024-25 fiscal year. Patrons borrowed nearly 1,300 physical items and performed over 7,400 searches for materials in the Library's online catalogue. The Library continues to be a member of the Consortium of Academic and Special Libraries of Saskatchewan (a collaborative network of libraries and memory institutions), as well as the Saskatchewan Electronic Resources Partnership (a province-wide program in which libraries pool funds to purchase access to electronic resources).

The GDI Library's catalogue

PRINCE ALBERT BRANCH

The past year was full of change at the Prince Albert Library, as Nicolle DeGagné left her position to pursue new career opportunities in June. Saffron Powell began work as casual student library assistant in July, providing library services to graduate students on campus throughout the summer, and Ayu Dayat joined the team as the new library resource facilitator in December. The Prince Albert Library added 167 new physical items to its collection throughout the year, and users borrowed 431 items (including 153 using the Meescan self-checkout kiosk).

In January 2025, the Library purchased 30 copies of Bonny Johnson and Leah Marie Dorion's sînapân kiskasākās: A Guide to Making Contemporary-Style Métis Ribbon Skirts to present to students participating in a ribbon skirt sewing circle led by SUNTEP faculty member Beige Unger. In February, the Library partnered with the SUNTEP Culture Committee and Elders Sharon Meyer, Harriet St. Pierre, and Shelley Belhumeur to offer a storytelling session attended by approximately 60 students. The Library provided small gifts for attendees in support of this meaningful cultural event.

SASKATOON BRANCH

This year, the Saskatoon Library continued to enhance its collection with a focus on Métis-specific literature, children's books, and curriculum resources that support Indigenous learning and perspectives.

As part of the Library Services for Saskatchewan Aboriginal Peoples (LSSAP)-sponsored Indigenous Storytelling Month in February, the Library proudly hosted Dr. Cheryl Troupe as a featured storyteller. The event was a resounding success, drawing an audience of 90 attendees and fostering a deeper appreciation for Métis/Michif storytelling traditions.

The Saskatoon Library remains committed to supporting both students and staff in their academic pursuits. It provides access to valuable learning resources and encourages students to explore and connect with their cultural identities while continuing to serve as a welcoming, safe, and inclusive space where students can study, collaborate, and build meaningful connections with their peers.

REGINA BRANCH

In June of 2024, the Regina Library bid a fond farewell to librarian Marilyn Belhumeur, who retired after nearly 40 years of dedicated service to the Institute. From her early contributions as the Library was being established, through multiple relocations and many ups and downs, Marilyn was a near-constant presence for generations of staff and students, all of whom miss her and wish her the best in her well-deserved retirement. Although the Regina Library lost a full-time position with Marilyn's departure, it continues to be a welcoming space for students and community members to gather, study, and conduct research, with just over 4,700 in-person visits and 750 items borrowed throughout the year. Regina staff continued to offer subject-specific information literacy instruction to Institute students upon request by Institute faculty.

In co-operation with SUNTEP faculty member Brenna Pacholko, the Regina Library hosted more than two dozen drop-in Craft and Chat sessions throughout the year. The drop-ins were attended by 177 students, staff, alumni, and community members. These gatherings were full of laughter, crafting, and conversation that kept us warm through the long winter.

"The Indigenous Education Doctorate program stands as a powerful testament to the significance of Indigenous knowledge, leadership, and community-centred education. It offers a transformative space for emerging scholars, allowing me to honour my Métis identity while advancing both academic and community-driven research. I believe this program will elevate Indigenous voices and perspectives, contributing to meaningful change within education systems through the strength of Indigenous scholarship in teaching and learning."

—Carrie McCloy, Indigenous Education Doctorate Candidate

GABRIEL DUMONT COLLEGE

Gabriel Dumont College delivers several undergraduate and graduate-level post-secondary educational programs through affiliation agreements with the University of Regina and the University of Saskatchewan. Overall, 97 university students were enrolled in GDI programs for the 2024-2025 academic year.

The Northern Saskatchewan Indigenous Teacher Education Program had an enrolment of 57 students in the 2024-2025 academic year. The third NSITEP graduating class included 13 graduates with more than 90% of them finding placements in northern communities after graduation. NSITEP provides valuable land-based excursions, creating experiential learning opportunities that deepen students' understanding of Indigenous traditions and connection to the land.

GDC GRADUATE STUDENT BURSARY

13 recipients in 2024-2025 were awarded $52,000

After a one-year pause, the GDC Graduate Student Bursary resumed in 2024 with updated criteria to better support student needs.

"The Gabriel Dumont Institute Master of Education program has been a journey of coming home, of reconnecting with my roots, strengthening my cultural identity, and walking deeper into Indigenous ways of knowing and being. Grounded in the teachings of respect, reciprocity, and relevance, the program has deepened my commitment to supporting culturally responsive, student-centered education rooted in relationship and community. It has gifted me with the knowledge, strength, and purpose to walk alongside others in creating learning spaces where Indigenous voices, values, and worldviews are embraced and celebrated."

–Terri-Lynn Tremblay, Indigenous Community Based Master of Education Graduate 2024

The Indigenous Community-Based Master of Education Program celebrated its eighth graduating cohort with 19 new graduates in Prince Albert.

The first cohort of the Indigenous Education Doctorate (EdDoc) Program, offered by the Gabriel Dumont Institute and the University of Regina Faculty of Education, had 17 students enrolled. The EdDoc is a three-year program that centres Métis local knowledge, history, spirituality, and culture within broader national and international contexts.

The program features flexible delivery, including summer sessions in Prince Albert and online distance learning during the fall and winter, designed to accommodate working professionals. Students form a supportive community of learners, applying their studies to their careers as teachers, principals, administrators, and scholars.

"Before I was shy to speak Cree, but now I'm proud. One of my school presentations I did all in Cree, and I was so proud. I had to learn a different dialect. I knew the y dialect, but I had to learn the n dialect to be able to teach it. I loved that experience. My passion is to teach my own people our language so that we can keep it within our community."

–Betty-Ann Durocher, NSITEP 2025 Graduate and Iskotev Community Fires Award Co-Recipient

GABRIEL DUMONT INSTITUTE TRAINING & EMPLOYMENT

Gabriel Dumont Institute Training & Employment has been trusted with supporting Saskatchewan's Métis to achieve miyoo pimachihoohk (good living) for nearly two decades. Through our career development programs and services, we strive to end systemic barriers and create opportunities for Métis clients to strengthen their communities and pursue self-determined futures.

GDITE's work is made possible through the strong support of our funding partners, including Métis Nation–Saskatchewan, Employment and Social Development Canada, and the O'yateki Partnership. These partnerships provide essential resources and a shared vision that enable us to deliver responsive, innovative services that reflect the strengths, priorities, and aspirations of Métis communities across Saskatchewan.

Each year, hundreds of partnerships with employers, training providers, and community organizations are forged to meet local labour market needs and to empower Métis talent.

Funded programs provide flexible, wrap-around services for clients pursuing education, skills development, and employment. During the 2024–25 fiscal year, GDITE provided employment assistance to 3,305 clients in areas such as career advising, resume development, and job search support. Of those clients, 3,178 received a total of 4029 funded interventions that advanced their goals and contributed to thriving families and communities.

GDITE's commitment to relational approaches is clear in community presentations and workshops across Saskatchewan. Staff shared information and built connections with students, employers, and community members at career fairs, high schools, correctional facilities, and partner events, including sessions at White Buffalo Youth Lodge, Back to Batoche, Try-A-Trade Interactive Education and Career Fair, and many more.

ENTREPRENEURSHIP

Since 2017, GDITE has delivered the Pathways for Entrepreneurship program to support the development of an inclusive Indigenous economy, create local products, services, and employment, and to develop economic ecosystems that bolster innovation and Métis business development.

Client support includes access to a dedicated business counsellor, client-specific training funding, in-house workshop training courses, funding for expert advising support, business planning support, and a start-up transitional allowance and bonuses.

A key partner for the Pathways program is the Clarence Campeau Development Fund (CCDF), one of the most successful Métis financial institutions in Canada. The CCDF provides Saskatchewan's Métis with a wide variety of business grant and loan programs.

RESULTS:

April 1, 2024-March 31, 2025

- 183 Métis entrepreneurs accessed training through GDI
- 99 Métis businesses were created, maintained, or expanded
- 80 Métis entrepreneurs accessed professional services to advance their business (Accounting, legal, business planning, consulting, marketing, etc.)

Swift Current, Saskatchewan is home to Stride Physio & Performance, a thriving clinic dedicated to helping clients move better, feel stronger, and take control of their health. At the helm is Jory Meyer, a proud Métis entrepreneur who grew up in Southwest Saskatchewan and pursued both a Kinesiology degree and a Master of Physical Therapy degree at the University of Saskatchewan.

"I didn't really see a future living on the family farm anymore," said Jory. "My passion was always in sport, exercise, and physical activity. I spent a lot of time shadowing staff with the USask Huskies Health team, and that really motivated me to pursue my master's in physical therapy."

In late 2022, Jory was presented with an unexpected opportunity when the previous owners of Stride approached him with the chance to purchase the business. While navigating the complexities of business ownership, Jory discovered the Gabriel Dumont Institute's Pathways for Entrepreneurship program.

"I wouldn't be where I am today without the support of the Pathways program," Jory shared. "The funding helped cover my basic living expenses, so I could focus entirely on setting up the clinic. And the access to training and upskilling gave me confidence in what I was doing and made a difference in providing value to my clients."

Beyond the clinic walls, Jory's journey has also included reconnecting with his Métis heritage.

"Growing up in Southern Saskatchewan, the culture was often hidden from my family history due to prejudice," he explained. "It's been great to explore all the cultural programs and resources out there now—like the Métis business directory, Little Readers program, and the cultural packages from Métis Nation-Saskatchewan for my son. It's meaningful to rebuild and embrace the culture that was once taken from our family."

Today, Stride Physio & Performance has become a trusted health resource in the Swift Current community with a team of seven employees, a growing client base, and a strong reputation for high-quality care.

—Jory Meyer, Owner, Stride Physio & Performance

MÉTIS NATION UNIVERSITY SPONSORSHIP

The Métis Nation University Sponsorship Program empowers Métis learners across Saskatchewan to pursue post-secondary degrees and create pathways to miyoo pimachihoohk (good living) for themselves, their families, and their communities. The program provides financial assistance and wrap-around support to help students overcome barriers and focus on achieving their educational goals.

Through sponsorship funding, Métis students can access resources to support academic costs while studying in degree programs at recognized universities. Each year, the program supports a growing number of clients pursuing careers in fields such as education, health care, social work, business, and justice.

Funded by the Métis Nation–Saskatchewan's Post-Secondary Education Sub-Accord with Canada, GDI has successfully administered this program since 2019, putting $7.9 million into the hands of 1,278 students in the 2024-25 fiscal year.

The success of the program is reflected in the achievements of its graduates, who are contributing their skills and knowledge across Saskatchewan and beyond. By investing in Métis post-secondary success, the Métis Nation University Sponsorship Program contributes to reconciliation, strengthens economic opportunities, and supports the development of vibrant, self-determined Métis communities.

"I am thrilled to have the support of Métis Nation University Sponsorship to attend the University of Saskatchewan. It has allowed me the freedom to explore a variety of classes in the College of Arts and Science and opened my eyes to the wealth of opportunities that exist here in Saskatoon."

–Zoe Beauchemin, Métis Nation University Sponsorship Recipient

APPRENTICESHIP

GDITE Indigenous Apprenticeship Project builds on over a decade of successful apprenticeship initiatives. The goal of the current project is to create opportunities for unemployed or underemployed Indigenous job seekers to gain hands-on experience, leading to formal indenture with the Saskatchewan Apprenticeship and Trades Certification Commission (SATCC). GDITE creates opportunities by partnering with employers across sectors, including construction, agriculture, mining, and energy. Employers receive resources to build inclusive workplaces, while clients are supported in transitioning to long-term, meaningful careers.

This year, the program expanded into correctional facilities to support individuals preparing for release. The first presentation was held in 2023 at the Prince Albert Correctional Centre, and as a result, 18 inmates have engaged with one-on-one follow-up consultations to plan next steps. GDITE also held virtual sessions at the Pine Grove Correctional Centre and hosted a first in-person presentation at Saskatoon Provincial Correctional Centre, receiving enthusiastic feedback from participants and facility staff.

Additionally, the GDI and SIIT Ojateki Partnership Teams have strengthened collaboration on joint initiatives to better connect Ojateki Pathway Programs and strengthen support for individuals preparing for release. Together, these efforts help more Indigenous people build rewarding careers and achieve miyoo pimachihoohk (good living).

"I completed an apprenticeship for roofing because I've been doing it for quite some time. I needed the school to back myself up, for my future. I've grown as a person over the years, learned new skills. Keep doing what you guys are doing. This is an amazing opportunity to help Indigenous people."

Allen Claude Janvier, a Level 2 learner at Dumont Technical Institute (DTI) in La Loche, was honoured with the 2024 Cameco Literacy Learner Award and Bursary at the Saskatchewan Literacy Awards of Merit held at Government House in Regina. The event recognized Allen's inspiring educational journey and lifelong commitment to growth. A 67-year-old single parent and former mine worker, Allen chose to return to school after raising his children and grandchildren, determined to improve his reading and writing skills. Since enrolling at DTI, Allen has shown remarkable progress in literacy and math. Known for his quiet leadership and generosity, he regularly helps classmates and shares Dene language and culture in the classroom. Allen's story is a testament to perseverance, the power of education at any age, and the strength of community learning.

NICOLE HILL,
LEADS Exceptional Student Award 2025
SUNTEP Prince Albert

Nicole Hill from SUNTEP Prince Albert was awarded the LEADS Exceptional Student Award in spring 2025. During her practicum in a Kindergarten classroom at Stobart School in Duck Lake (Prairie Spirit School Division), Nicole fully immersed herself in Michif, entering her placement with no prior knowledge of teaching Michif, but quickly becoming a confident speaker and cultural role model for her students. Her practicum was marked by culturally responsive and land-based learning strategies such as berry gathering, traditional storytelling, and preparing a community feast. She also integrated Elders' teachings and Métis traditions to cultivate a vibrant classroom environment where students felt seen, valued, and connected to their heritage. Beyond her classroom excellence, Nicole organized the school-wide Terry Fox Run, facilitated a storytelling workshop with Elders, guided a staff smudge, led a restorative sharing circle, coached junior girls' volleyball, and volunteered at school fundraisers. She was also a respected leader in the SUNTEP community, playing an active role in the Culture Committee, helping lead weekly smudges, and maintaining an exemplary academic record.

KYLE GORDON,
2024 GDI Perseverance Award
GDITE Indigenous Apprenticeship Client

In December 2024, Kyle Gordon, a dedicated carpentry apprentice, was recognized with the Perseverance Award at the 24th Annual Apprenticeship Celebration Dinner. This award honours apprentices who demonstrate exceptional commitment to their trade while overcoming significant challenges, and Kyle's journey exemplifies that spirit. His perseverance and hard work in the skilled trades reflect not only his personal determination but also the Métis values of resilience, community, and pride in one's work. Presented by Audrey Hestand, the award was a proud moment shared with his father Brad, who stood alongside him during the celebration. Kyle's success demonstrates his grit and passion for his craft, and it inspires other apprentices to pursue their goals despite obstacles.

ERIKA WARKENTINE,
USask College of Education
Professionalism Award for Excellence in Teaching
SUNTEP Prince Albert

Erika Warkentine, a graduate of SUNTEP Prince Albert, has excelled both academically and as a community leader. After returning to formal education following an 11-year pause, Erika embraced her calling as a teacher, leading culture camps, sharing her knowledge of ribbon skirt making, and building meaningful relationships through initiatives like a beading club. Her commitment to Métis culture, creativity, and student engagement shaped her identity as an educator and earned her recognition with a USask Indigenous Student Achievement Award in Leadership and the Order of Gabriel Dumont Bronze Medal. Erika will begin her teaching career with the Saskatchewan Rivers Public School Division in 2025-2026.

PARTNERSHIPS

GDI is grateful for the many new and long-standing partnerships that continue to grow and sustain all areas of the Institute. We strive to foster positive, accountable, and reciprocal relationships with our partners as we move towards our shared goals of supporting Métis students and culture. We work alongside government agencies, non-profits, academic institutions, and private businesses to enhance our programming and service delivery.

On September 26, 2024, GDI renewed the affiliation agreement with the University of Regina (U of R), one of the Institute's long-time and valued partners. The U of R and GDI have a long standing history of collaboration in providing high-quality educational opportunities for the Métis community. A key highlight of the renewed partnership is the launch of the Indigenous Education Doctorate Program in Prince Albert. This three-year program emphasizes Métis local knowledge, history, spirituality, and culture.

The Clarence Campeau Development Foundation (CCDF) is a key partner for GDITE's Pathways to Entrepreneurship Program. CCDF is one of the most successful Métis financial institutions in Canada, and they provide Saskatchewan's Métis with a wide variety of business grants and loans. GDITE provides the workshops and professional development opportunities necessary for Métis entrepreneurs to grow their business alongside the financial support from CCDF. This partnership ensures that Métis entrepreneurs and business owners are supported, strengthened, and successful.

Another long-time partner, Parks Canada and the Batoche Historical Site continue to work closely with the GDI Culture & Heritage Department. The Institute presented several special cultural events over the past year at the Batoche Historical Site in partnership with Parks Canada, who maintains the site. On July 18th, a special mass was held at Batoche Church to honour St. Joseph, the patron saint of the Métis. On November 16th, a memorial ceremony was held to remember the sacrifices of Louis Riel and the Métis veterans. The Institute continues to work closely with Parks Canada to preserve and celebrate the cultural history of the Batoche Historical Site.

Finally, in February 2025, the GDI Library partnered with the Prince Albert Multicultural Association Council (PAMAC) to strengthen community literacy and cross-cultural learning. The Prince Albert GDI Library donated several GDI Press books and learning resources to the PAMAC to promote Indigenous cultural sharing and supporting diversity in the community. The donation will help share the stories of the Métis with a wider audience, including newcomers and youth. The GDI Library is pleased to continue to educate, inspire, and support literacy in the community.
